

Shifting intergenerational disadvantage in Aboriginal communities

SixFive partnered with Moriarty Foundation to leverage the Google NFP program to reduce their costs and gain access to essential collaboration and productivity tools. We now provide ongoing advice, admin and user support for Google Workspace.

The challenge

Reduction of operating costs is a priority in every NFP, but we still need best in class technology. We needed to improve organisation and access of business data, to ensure organisational efficiency and data security. Users in remote locations with low tech proficiency need ongoing support and training. Low email deliverability challenged communication with key partners and donors.

The solution

We worked with Moriarty Foundation to sign up to the NFP program, configure and set up Google Workspace and work through deliverability issues, organisation of data and training of less regular users in remote locations. Advice and guidance provided on Chrome devices and ongoing support for a range of digital matters from remote meetings to website.

The results

We have significant cost savings by leveraging the NFP Program simultaneously increasing productivity & efficiency throughout the team. Comfort around the review and maintenance of our Google Workspace set up, security and maintenance. New Website support, and development updates and improved communication with our key stakeholders. We now deliver to our mission with less technology stress.

“ I have engaged SixFive for over seven years, and across three businesses. SixFive have been instrumental in our Google Workspace implementations and ongoing support. Most recently we launched our new NFP website and SixFive are key to its success and ongoing management. The care and attention that the team provide to us across digital services are key to the businesses ongoing successes. ”
